

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Age Equity Alliance, November 22, 2021

GIVING TUESDAY

On Giving Tuesday Age Equity Alliance Hosts Complimentary Discussions and Educational Sessions About Workplace Age Equity

Austin, TX - In honor of Giving Tuesday on November 30, Age Equity Alliance (AEA) announces a full day's agenda addressing age bias and discrimination and steps organizations can take to create diverse, age-equitable working cultures.

"Giving Tuesday is about how we all give to the things that are important to us. For Age Equity Alliance, what's important is teaching others about the many ways age bias and discrimination shows up in the workplace—across the age spectrum," said Sheila Callaham, AEA Executive Director. "The workplace can't become age-equitable if nobody is calling out ageist words and behavior, especially since so many people don't think about age as a dimension of diversity."

On November 30, AEA will host a series of complimentary panel discussions and education sessions from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm EST. In between training sessions on topics ranging from age equity 101 to critical theories on implicit bias, AEA Board members, including age activist Ashton Applewhite, will make appearances to discuss topics relevant to workplace age equity.

See the calendar of events and register at AgeEquityAlliance.org.